Nashville, IN Competitive Landscape

VISUAL ART RETREATS IN THE BROWN COUNTY / NASHVILLE, IN AREA:

- Nashville, IN · Established artist colony, but very few structured retreat offerings ·
- Brown County has galleries, studios, and artisan shops · but no all-inclusive visual art retreat product currently operating. ·
- Nearest institutional programs: ·
- - Penland (NC) and similar are 6+ hours away ·

Takeaway: Despite being a known artist community, Nashville, IN has no structured visual art retreat. The market is open.

Industry Context (Verified Sources Only)

These numbers come from the Global Wellness Institute (GWI), the primary research body for this industry, and Grand View Research. I'm only including data I can trace to a named, methodologically transparent source.

Market Size

- Global wellness tourism: $651B (2022) · $868B (2023) · $894B (2024) Source: GWI Global Wellness Economy Monitor 2023; GWI 2025 wellness tourism page
- US wellness tourism market: $256 billion (2022), largest in the world Source: GWI / Statista
- US wellness economy overall: $2.1 trillion (2024) Source: GWI 2025 Global Wellness Economy Monitor

Growth

- Wellness tourism spending grew ~36% annually from 2020-2022 (post-pandemic recovery surge) Source: GWI, cited in secondary sources; note this reflects a recovery period, not a sustained rate
- Grand View Research projects 9.3% CAGR for wellness tourism 2026-2035 Source: Grand View Research market report
- GWI forecasts overall wellness economy growth at 7.6% annually through 2029 Source: GWI 2025 press release

Spending Behavior

- Domestic wellness tourists spend significantly more than average domestic tourists (commonly cited as 175% more; original GWI methodology not publicly available) Source: GWI, widely cited
- International wellness tourists spend $1,764/trip · 41% more than typical international tourists Source: GWI
- US consumers spend ~$6,300/person/year on wellness Source: GWI, US wellness economy data (confirmed 2025)
- 88% of wellness trips are domestic (not international) Source: GWI

What I'm NOT including: Several aggregator sites (Gitnux, ZipDo, WifiTalents) publish retreat demographics stats (e.g., "68% women," "55% of millennials plan 2+ retreats"). These are widely cited but I cannot trace them to a named primary study with disclosed methodology. They may be directionally correct, but I can't call them verified facts. Take them as "probably in the right ballpark" rather than gospel.

A Note on This Research

This document uses only two types of data:

- 1 Prices from retreat operators' own websites · these are facts. Someone is charging this amount right now for this experience.
- 2 Industry statistics from named research organizations (Global Wellness Institute, Grand View Research, The Business Research Company) · these are published reports from organizations whose methodology is disclosed and whose work is cited by governments and industry bodies.

I've excluded stats I couldn't verify to a primary source. Better to have fewer numbers you can trust than more numbers you can't.
